

February missed poems

A vast and quiet Forest of barren trees Beckons for another step

Caroline Lodewick

---

haiku hug

with her breasts now gone they hold each other closer their hearts keeping time

Ellen Hirning Schmidt

---

wild wind whistles whipping through weeping willows while birds fight the breeze

Patti Fusco

FURY HAIKU

He was so angry
About the threat to his son he slapped the villain.

Emory Jones

---

When I let the grass grow around the old, red barn suddenly daisies.

Christine Andersen

---

Awesome, I can work with that. Fury comes easy these whackadoodle days.

Pam Klem, LOL

March Haiku 2025

We are now living Under King Donald the first
The world will still spin

James Scrimgeour

---

Haiku - Fury

Lion speaks to sky
Lamb lies amongst sleeping seedlings Short shadows await

Starr-Hope Ertel

---

the acid corrodes veneers of my contentment pitted righteousness

Edward Ahern

---

How much joy can we destroy chasing these dizzy peaks of ecstasies?

Matthew Mercure

---

tariff weapons storm the blow-hard speaks of peace with silent missiles

Kevin Carey

---

Fury building inside her Like a tsunami
Of hatred

Bessy Reyna

---

Fury frees chaos, whirling storm-torn land tonight.
Can the center hold?

-Kate Powers

---

When my mind takes off thoughts unfold like gum wrappers twirling, small cyclones.

Cynthia Santostefano Sharr

---

heat droughts floods typhoons landslides cyclones wildfires
The Earth Strikes Back!

Peter Ulisse

---

long horn rams echo on snow covered mountains crash duel for survival

Tony Fusco

---

Angel wings spread
A retributive balance Echoing just love

Kelly Jo Carlson

---

false spring
I shake winter's fury off my wings

Amy Graver

---

A glass mirror shows a fearless bull-hooves scrap, breath deep to battle self.

Stephen Corbeil

---

moods flow free, here, now my mind-storms froth, foam, sputter rage poisons, now breathe

Karl Traichel

---

March haiku "Fury"

flag unfurls fury dark night invades window pane inside heart still beats

Ellen Hirning Schmidt

---

nightly news ignites angry embers burn inside self protect-be cool

Jan Geoghegan

---

A girl sits alone in the clinic's waiting room.
Cold outside, colder here.

-Charlie Ewers

---

fury rages on destroying her heart and soul killing any joy

Patti Fusco

---

lightning strikes!
it's fury
rends the clouds

Suzanne Niedzielska

---

wind and rain the hot cup held curls of heat

Doreen R Oshinskie

---

Twigs, branches, whole torn trees strewn across bleak March landscape winter's last fury

Mary Hills Kuck

---

Why the fury
When it's only a flicker
And not a firework

---

“Lesson 2”

Don't blow the puff balls
The seeds spread and multiply They are not flowers

by Mike Baxter

---

A savage beauty.
Thrashing waves and howling wind.
Majesty! The storm.

- L. P. Murphy

---

little purple petals sudden and bright fury in a patch of snow

Alisa Parcels

Hell's Kitchen
Wildfires rage
As gasoline is poured on Instead of water

Shawn M. Von Briesen
